

Losing a Loved One

A Resource Guide

We understand losing a loved one is difficult and the process of what to do afterward may be overwhelming. This guide provides resources on probate and wills, final arrangements, death certificates, potential financial assistance, and ways to help with grief.

Where to Start

Obtaining a Death Certificate

State of Alaska, Division of Public Health (formerly Vital Statistics)

- Fill out this form: health.alaska.gov/dph/VitalStats/Documents/death/death_form.pdf
- Call (907) 269-0991 (Anchorage area)
- Call (907) 465-3391 (Juneau office)
- For more information, visit: health.alaska.gov/dph/VitalStats/Pages/default.aspx

How many copies will I need?

The number of certified copies you will need may vary, but it's helpful to keep in mind the following entities that may require an original or copy of the death certificate:

- Alaska Native village and regional corporations to complete a transfer of eligible shares to heirs
- Tribal organizations of which your loved one was enrolled
- Banks, credit unions, and other financial institutions
- Insurance companies
- Retirement accounts
- State of Alaska (Permanent Fund, DMV, etc.)
- Internal Revenue Service (IRS)
- Social Security Administration

This list is not exhaustive and may vary from person to person. Funeral directors will often help in obtaining a death certificate for your loved one.

If your loved one held Class A original shares in Olgoonik Corporation, please provide OC Stock with the death certificate as soon as you can. Contact OC Stock with any questions about the process of transferring shares to a shareholder's surviving heirs.
